FOREWORD

The Philippines is a fish-eating country. Its geographical factors make it so. The Philippine waters abound in different kinds of fishes, from the popular lapu-lapu to the dilis. Those who cannot afford to buy the expensive ones can still have fish in their diet if they buy the cheaper kind. The food value of fish is not measured by the price it commands. Take the dilis, for example. It is cheap, but nutritionists declare it high in calcium content. And it is within the reach of the modest pocket.

A clever housewife sees to it that her means are varied and appetizing. This book suggests different ways of preparing and cooking fish. Some are simple and for everyday menus. More elaborate ones are also included to please fastidious tastes.

In the preparation of this GOOD HOME RECIPES FOR PHILIPPINE FISHES, we consulted and quoted valuable guide materials from various sources. We extend our grateful acknowledgement to these sources we made reference of in making this book a helpful home recipe guide for all Filipino girls and housewives.

OUR FOOD HABITS

Man is a creature of habit. The way he dresses, goes to his church, furnishes his home, and the way he prefers to take his meat, his fish or vegetables are governed by habit. A man's food habits are so ingrained in him that he will take without hesitation any suggestion that may involve changing his fixed ways of eating.

We all remember the difficult days of food rationing, those wartime food budgets that reached the thousand-peso mark; when clams (tulya), coconuts and kangkong, small fishes and peanuts were good old standbys in every home because of their comparatively low prices. From the nutritionist's point of view, the small amount of rice eaten at that time coupled with the very large bulk of leafy greens like kangkong, camote tops and talinum; the generous coconut dishes and plentiful tulya, and peanuts were truly heaven-sent.

We did not know it at the time, but if we check our wartime meals with the Basic Six Food Groups, we would be surprised that such a meal contains food from Group I to Group VI. Although this diet was low in milk and milk products, eggs, chicken and meat, there was an unusually generous supply of small fishes, clams (tulya), peanuts, dried and fresh beans and bean products which are good sources of protein and calcium. Leafy green and yellow vegetables were eaten in greater proportion to rice, which was rationed and served in much smaller portions than today.

But the Filipino is not happy with such a diet because of his food habits. The Filipino prefers to eat large servings of rice with as much beef, pork and fish as he can afford and with only a sprinkling of fruits and vegetables. He still eats peanuts but not as much as he used to eat then; while coconuts play a very minor part in the diets of today.

If you want to check your food habits with some sort of a yardstick, to find out for yourself how good they are we suggest that you use the Institute of Nutrition scorecard reproduced below and see how you rate. If you get below 75 per cent, perhaps your eating habits need a bit of change. Money spent for food must bring you optimum health, vigor and increased efficiency. If you feel below par, the scorecard may help you find the reason why. Are you buying health or sickness when you go to market? Be fair to yourself, be wise food managers by investing in health foods that are money-saving.

If interested in the use of the scorecard and if in doubt about your score, write to the Institute of Nutrition for "Instructions for the Use of the Scorecard."

BUYING FISH

A fresh fish is not necessarily one that smells the fishiest. To the contrary, a top quality fish has a fresh smell. The acute fishy smell sometimes noted is usually a sign that the product is close to the end of its life, as a putrid odor will soon be evident. A fresh fish should have a bright, clear, full eye with a jet black pupil and transparent cornea. The gills should be pink or tinted and the flesh should be firm and elastic, springing back to fill up the hole when prodded.

A stale fish has a clouded, sunken grey eye, grey or slimy gills, a tainted or stale odor, and the flesh holds the indentations when pressed. Stale oysters and clams have shells that usually begin to gape; thus the shells should be tightly closed when bought. They should also be smelled for the putrid fish odor that indicates an undesirable product.

Quality in shucked oysters and clams is hard to determine. They should have a fresh clean odor, clean-cut sharp outlines and, if possible, be kept on ice. The best assurance of good shellfish, as in all fish buying, is a good dependable dealer who wants your trade and keeps a good product in a clean sanitary stall.

Crabs and lobsters should be alive when purchased. To test a cooked lobster or shrimp for its condition at the time it was cooked, straighten out the curled tail. If it curls back, it was alive when cooked.

It is well to remember that in order to have a good finished product, in cookery, it is necessary to start with a good raw material!

CUTTING FISH

The recipe used in cooking fish decrees the manner in which the fish is to be cut. There is a region in the world that has never seen a fish on the table with the head and body cavity intact. In fact, with the increased tendency toward filleting and freezing of fish, there are inland sections of the United States where the whole fish is seldom seen in the markets. However, in the Philippines, economy has dictated that the whole fish be used, wherever possible and certainly this practice is nutritionally sound.

When the fish is intact with the head, tail and viscera still attached, the fish is "whole" or "in the round". It is quite usual in the Philippines to see fresh small fish in the round, cut with lateral slashes along their sides, rolled in salt, pierced lengthwise with a bamboo splinter and broiled over a charcoal fire.

A "drawn" fish has been eviscerated (a slit made down the center of the soft belly and the entrails removed). Eviscerated small fish may be baked, pan fried or broiled. Large tender fish, such as the Spanish mackerel, may be baked without further preparation.

A "dressed" fish has the scales, viscera, fins, head and tail removed.

"Scaling" is done by holding the fish firmly with one hand and scraping the scales off with a knife held almost vertical to the fish, from tail to head. Soaking a dry fish in water a few minutes before scaling facilitates the operation. Scrapers, with rough edges or made from numerous blunt nails, driven through blocks of wood or made from soda bottle caps, can be used instead of a knife.

The head is removed by cutting above the collarbone behind the gills and then slicing straight through the backbone or snapping it off by bending it over the edge of the table. The pectoral fins can be removed with the head.

The dorsal fin is removed by vertical cuts down each side of it toward the backbone and then giving it a sharp pull forward toward the head. The ventral fin can be removed in a similar manner while the pelvic fins are removed by cutting the flesh that attaches them to the belly flaps.

SOME OF THE MARKET FISH

There are different species of fish in the Manila markets. Usually the only limits on buying are price and personal desire. Due to the great demand certain fish are extremely high in price. In fact some fish seldom come unto the retail market, as influential individuals have standing orders like spiny lobsters, mussels, etc., that may appear in the wholesale market.

However, the average Filipino will name the lapu-lapu as the choicest fish in the market. Lapu-lapu maybe gray, brown, or red with vari-colored spots and splotches, yet there's another kind whose flesh is white, sweet flavored and flaky. This may be baked or cooked as steaks.

The tanguigui or Spanish mackerel is a very fine food fish easily identified by its long body, blue stripes found on the back and dark stripes across the sides. The flesh is firm and white, good for grilling as steaks, or baking when the fish is small. Of course, an amount of sauce adds zest to it.

The red snapper is a bright red fish. The best known is the maya-maya. If baked slowly it makes a very fine dish especially when served with an attractive sauce.

The round slender-bodied barracuda makes a tasty dish when baked or broiled.

The golden dalagang bukid and the brightly-colored morong are savory fish, though considered second class by many people.

The hasa-hasas, alumahan and cavalla make a good meal as pan fish and have to be tried to be appreciated properly.

The mullets or banaks are likewise tender and delicious fish. When carefully cooked they bring out in them the best flavor.

The native pampano or talakitok is rather a plain colored, deep-bodied fish and another acceptable dish.

The porgy is a fish which bakes into a tender, desirable meal.

The palad or flatfish is among the very best but is not popular because of its scarcity. Their flattened bodies, brown or grey-colored backs and white undersides and twisted mouths and eyes make them very distinctive.

The dalag or mudfish is usually sold alive. When skinned and soaked in salt water for a few minutes, split and fried up crisp brown, it would be a delightful food. The catfish is in a similar category.

The pond-raised bangus, shiny, silvery fish with medium-sized scales, make up the most common fish in the market. As far as flavor and desirability are concerned, the bangus sells as second or third-class fish in the south, while in Manila it is rated first class. Though bony, it has a mild, sweet flavor.

The Filipinos consider the tuna a second-class fish although it is highly esteemed in America. Small-inch-squared pieces of yellow fin tuna rolled in flour, beaten egg and dried bread crumbs and then fried in hot fat for about four or five minutes cannot be bettered for gustatory delight. A tartar sauce makes the flavor even more striking.

Among the crabs available for sale, the alimango is probably the best. Then comes the brother alimasag. Both are expensive delicacies.

Fresh shrimps or hipon are extremely good and desirable. They are the best when not overcooked and some run up to a length of two feet or more.

The oysters look good, too. If one is sure that the oysters, clams or halaan come from a good and safe location, and are fresh, he can be sure that they are quite delectable and very desirable.

It is impossible to do justice to all the many fine fish in the market but it would be well to classify them as to relative desirability.

TOCHONG BANGUS

1 medium-sized bangus

4 tomatoes, minced

A piece of ginger cut in narrow strips

1 cube tajure

2 tablespoons tausi

2 segments garlic finely chopped

1 onion, sliced

2 tablespoons vinegar

Sugar to taste

1 cake tokua cut into pieces

Clean the fish. Cut in pieces about 1/2 inch thick. Salt and let it stand for about fifteen minutes. Fry the fish in hot lard until brown and set aside. Sauté the ginger, garlic and tomatoes. Dissolve the tausi in one cup of water. Add the tajure, tokua, onion and sugar to taste. Boil for about five minutes. Add the vinegar and continue boiling a few minutes longer. Drop the fried fish and continue boiling until the fish is done.

RELENONG BANGUS

1 bangus, medium-sized

1 onion

2 large tomatoes

1 segment chopped garlic

1 egg

Juice of 2 calamansi

1 tbsp. raisins

1/2 cup peas

Salt and pepper to taste

Clean the bangus. Cut it open at the back, and remove the meat of the fish. Flake the fish meat and remove all the bones. Add salt and pepper to the flaked fish.

Sauté in lard the garlic, onion and tomatoes. Add the flaked fish, peas, raisins and cook until done. Add the calamansi juice and slightly beaten egg. Fill the bangus skin with the mixture and sew up the opening. Fry in deep hot fat until the fish is golden brown.

BURONG ISDA

1 bangus, medium-sized
1 tablespoon angkak
1 cup rice
2 cups water

5 segments chopped garlic
1 onion, sliced
2 minced tomatoes
2 tablespoons lard

Clean the fish. Slice into pieces and salt all the slices. Let salted fish stand overnight. Cook the rice and allow it to cool. Mix the angkak (pounded fine) with the rice. Cover and let it stand from 3 to 5 days or until a time when the mixture smells sour.

Saute the chopped garlic, onion and tomatoes in lard. Add the buro and saute the mixture. A little water may be added if the buro is too thick. Serve hot or cold.

ESCAPECHE (Macao)

1 medium-sized lapu-lapu, apahap, or talakitok
1 large onion
3 segments of sliced garlic
1 large, red sweet pepper
1 or 2 potatoes

4 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons vinegar
3 tablespoons toyo

Clean the fish and fry in deep hot fat until brown. Set it aside.

Fry the garlic, onion, and sweet pepper cut in strips.

Make the gravy by mixing vinegar, toyo, sugar, and flour with a little water. Mix the sugar and flour first. Then add water little by little so the mixture will be smooth. Add the vinegar and toyo last.

Boil the mixture in a frying pan for five minutes.

Put the fried fish on a serving platter and pour the gravy carefully over it. Crispy fried potatoes (sliced) maybe used as garnishing.

GINATAAN BIA

5 regular sized bia
1 cup coconut milk
1 tbsp. flour

Juice of 2 calamansi
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt

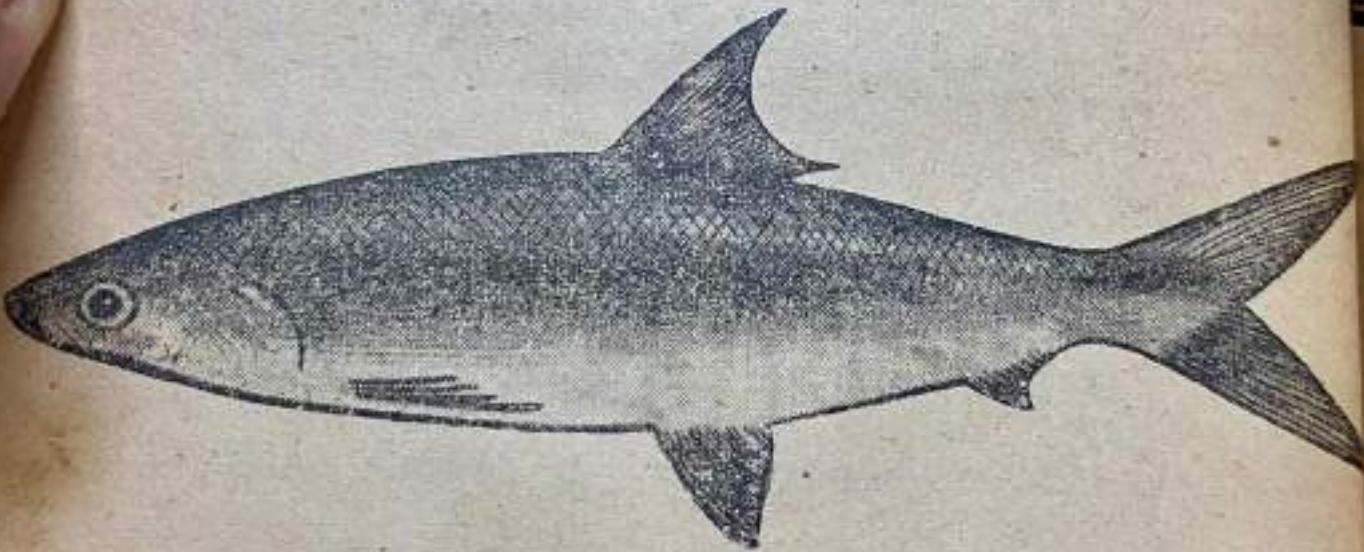

Clean the fish. Boil 1 cup coconut milk for about 15 minutes. Add the salt and calamansi juice.

Put the fish on a platter and prepare the gravy.
Mix one tablespoon of flour with the stock in which the fish was cooked. Simmer the mixture until it is thick, then pour the gravy on the fish.

DILIS CUTLETS

1 cup fresh dilis, washed and drained	1 tbsp. toyo
1 egg, unbeaten	6 tbsps. water
6 tbsp. cornstarch	Lard for frying

Mix egg, water, toyo and cornstarch. Pour into the bowl of fresh dilis. Drop by spoonfuls in hot lard. Three to four dilis makes a good cutlet. Fry until crisp. Serve at once.

BANGUS PESA

1 medium-sized bangus, cleaned and sliced
$\frac{1}{2}$ small cabbage halved
2 bundles of pechay, stalks cut from long leaves
3 inches long upo diced into 1 inch cubes

Let to boil:
5 cups rice water seasoned with
1 tsp. pepper corn
 $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches long of ginger pressed
 $4\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt

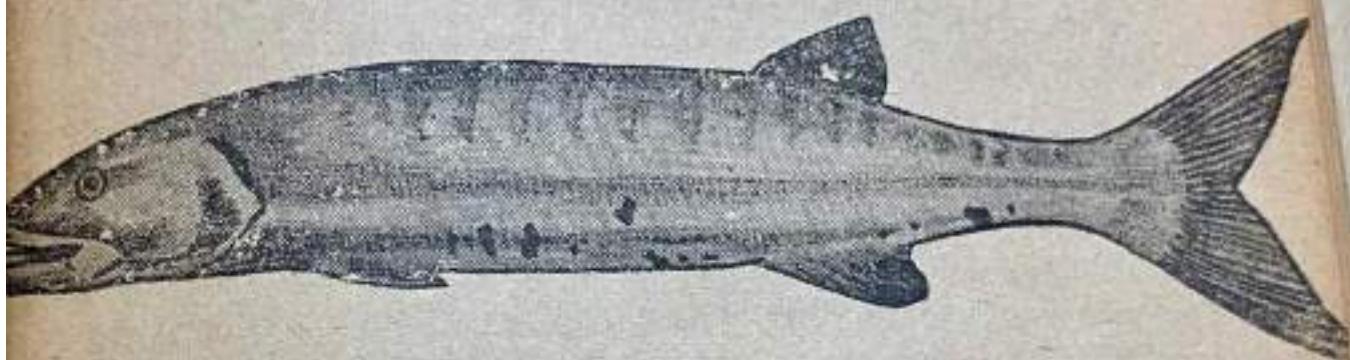

Drop the stalks of pechay to soften for 2 minutes. Put the fish and cabbage to boil. Add rice, water, ginger and salt.

BROILED BANGUS

1 big bangus
1 onion, chopped

2 tomatoes, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste

Clean the fish very well and with a sharp knife cut along the back and remove the backbone. Mix the chopped onion, seasoning and tomatoes and stuff the fish with the mixture. Wrap well in a banana leaf and broil. It proves good when served with calamansi halves.

DALAG WITH SALZA AMARILLA

1 big dalag
Salt and pepper
A small amount of flour

Clean dalag and cut into fillets. Sprinkle with pepper and salt. Cover the fish with flour and fry in lard or olive oil in a frying pan. Set it aside until the sauce is ready.

Sauce:

2 onions
Kinchay
1 tbsp. olive oil

1 cup hot water
Few grains of pepper
1 tsp. curry powder

Cut onion into very fine pieces; so with the kinchay. Then fry the onion adding the kinchay when it's tender in the olive oil. Pound the onion together with kinchay and grains of pepper. Extract the juice with hot water and strain it. Place it in the saucepan; then add salt to taste, curry powder and flour for thickening.

ESCA BECHENG APAHAP

1 apahap
4 pieces of tokua
1 onion, sliced
2 heads garlic
1 cup water

1 cup vinegar
1/2 cup sugar
1 red pepper
2 tbsp. sifted flour

A few mushrooms and ginger

Clean and slit the apahap. Rub with salt to taste. Prepare the ginger and garlic and cut them in diagonal strips. Dice the tokua in regular sizes and mix it with sugar, vinegar, salt so as to derive an agreeable sweet, sour taste. Also cut the pepper into four parts.

Melt the fat in a pan and fry the fish and tokua until it's almost done. Set it aside for sometime. Saute the onion, ginger and garlic in the same lard used. Add a mixture of vinegar and when it boils add the fried fish, mushrooms, tokua and pepper. Cover it for five minutes and add flour when it's almost done together with a cup of water. Then stir gently until it becomes thick.

ESCA BECHE WITH PAPAYA

2 green papayas
cut in strips
1 medium-sized fish
1 large onion sliced
1 head garlic, sliced thin
1 tbsp. ginger, sliced into strips
1 sweet red pepper cut

1 hot pepper, cut in strips
3 tbsp. vinegar
1 1/2 cups water
3 tbsp. toyo
1 1/2 tbsp. flour or cornstarch
4 tbsp. sugar
2 tbsp. lard
2 tsp. salt

Clean the fish and sprinkle with salt. Drain well and let it stand for 15 minutes. Fry in hot fat until brown and then set aside. Saute the garlic, onion, ginger, and papaya until the papaya is just half cooked. Add hot pepper and salt to a mixture of water, sugar, vinegar, toyo and flour or starch. The fried fish should be placed on the platter whenever you pour the gravy mixture. Garnish with sliced red pepper so as to look more attractive and appetizing.

FISH CROQUETTES

1 cup flaked fish	2 tbsp. chopped green onion
2 sections garlic, finely chopped	10 small potatoes boiled, peeled and mashed
1/2 onion, finely chopped
3/4 cup milk	2 eggs
1 1/2 tsps. salt	6 tablespoons bread crumbs
2 tbsp. butter	1 pinch black pepper

Saute the garlic and onion in 2 tablespoons lard. Add the fish, black pepper and salt and fry it for about 5 minutes. Add also the milk and mashed potatoes and cook till it's almost dry. Then add green onion and butter. Mix it very well and shape it into oval croquettes. Roll it slightly in beaten eggs and bread crumbs. Fry them in hot fat until brown. Surely the taste is delightful.

FISH WITH MISUA

1/2 cup misua	1/2 sliced onion
1/3 cup lard	2 ripe chopped tomatoes
1 cup water	Salt and pepper (to taste)
2 cloves crushed garlic

Fry a medium-sized fish until brown and crisp on both sides in 1/3 cup hot lard. Then remove the fish and keep hot. Saute 2 cloves crushed garlic with 1/2 sliced onion and 2 ripe chopped tomatoes. Add 1 cup water to 1/2 cup misua and season it with pepper and salt to taste. Pour this sauce over the fried fish and serve hot.

FISH BALLS WITH SOTANGHON AND KINCHAY

2 1/2 cups kinchay	1/2 onion (medium)
1/2 cup fish minced	1 egg
3 1/2 tablespoons lard	1 cup sotanghon

Season the minced fish with a little salt and pepper, break the egg into it and shape them into balls. Saute the garlic and onion on the frying pan with a little lard. Then cook it for about five minutes. Cover with two cups of water, add some seasoning and bring to a boil. Soak the sotanghon in a basin of water and cut them into short lengths. Add this to the fish and add the kinchay leaves when cooked. Season it with salt and pepper, cover and cook it for two minutes. It's indeed nice when served hot.

TINOLANG KANDULI

1 medium-sized dried kanduli	5 potatoes, medium-sized
2 cloves garlic, crushed	5 cups water
onion, sliced	5 tablespoonfuls lard

2/3 tablespoonful patis or soy

1 cup sili leaves, washed and sorted

The fish should be soaked in the water for 2 minutes, cut into 2-inch square pieces. Saute the onion in a saucepan of heated lard. Add patis or soy sauce, cover and allow to simmer over moderate heat. Add water and boil: then add fish and potatoes (quartered) and cook over moderate heat until both becomes tender. Add seasoning of salt and pepper, then add sili leaves to the mixture. Wonderful when served hot.

SINAING NA DILIS

1/2 kilo fresh dilis

Banana leaves

2 tablespoons salt

1/2 cup water

5 green tamarind (pounded)

Clean the fish well and add salt. Wrap in banana leaves. Put into the kettle with pounded tamarind and add water. Cook it until the water becomes dry.

PAKSIW NA DILIS

1/2 cup vinegar

2 cups fresh dilis

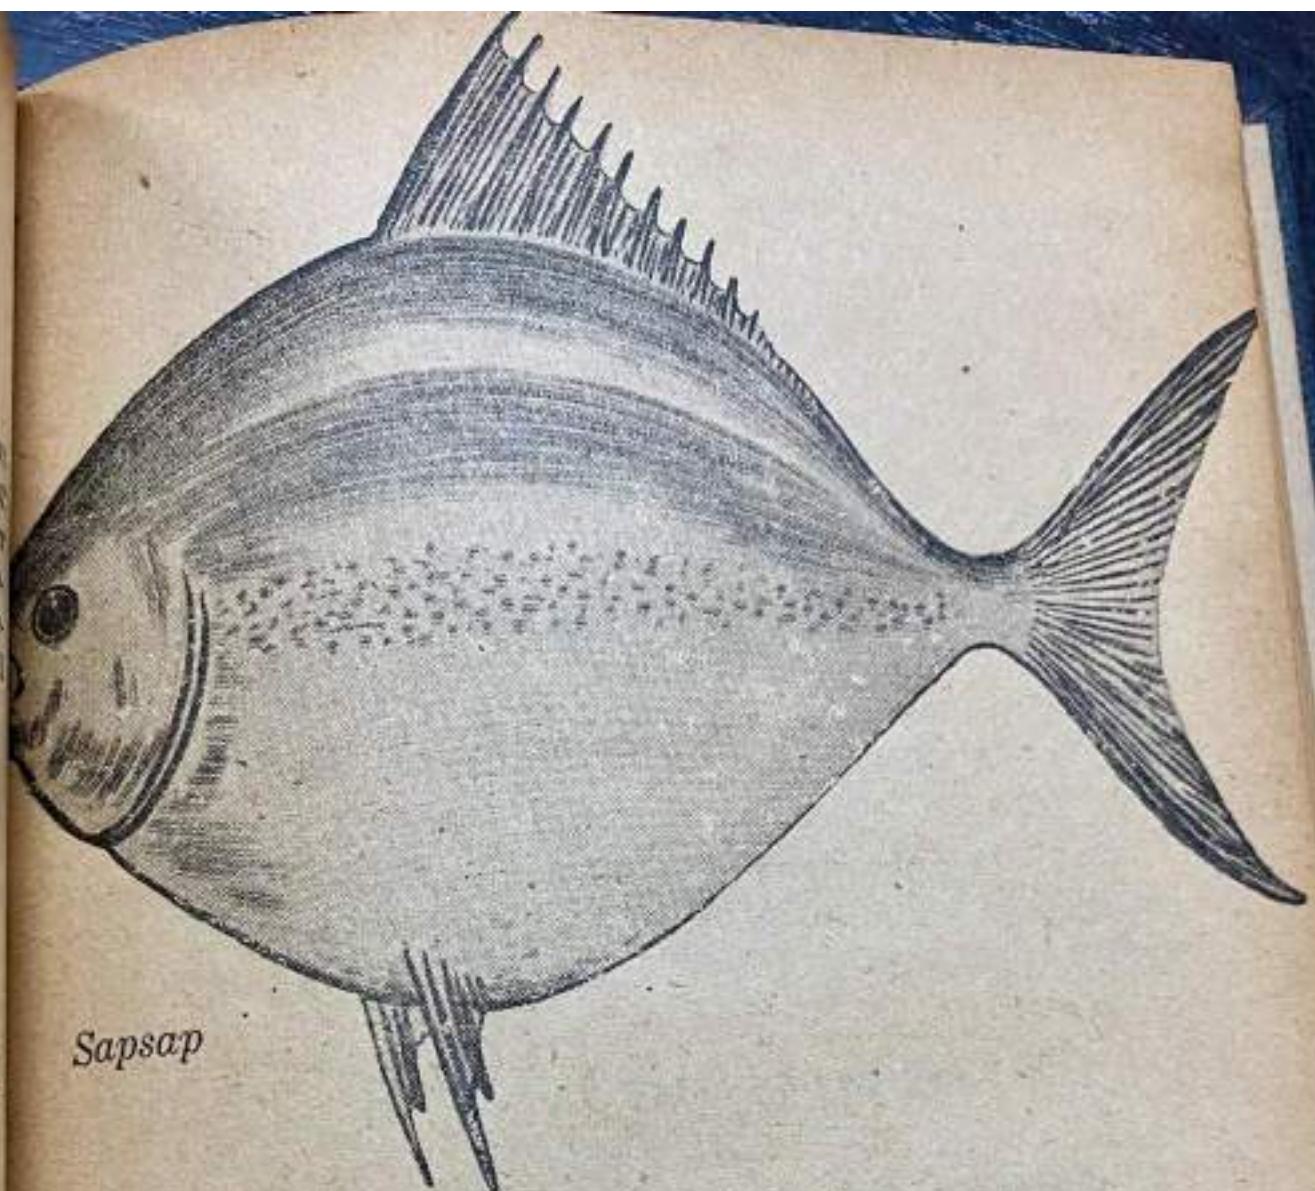

1 tablespoon salt

1 small piece of ginger sliced thin

Wash thoroughly the dilis and drain. Line the clay pot or any cooking vessel with banana leaves or sea weeds. Add to the dilis, salt, vinegar and ginger. Cook it for 10 minutes. When served with fresh tomatoes the flavor will be much improved.

KILAWIN DILIS (Fresh)

Wash the dilis carefully and soak for 20 minutes in vinegar. Set aside. Grate 1/2 of a coconut and extract 1/4 cup for thick coconut milk. Drain the dilis and squeeze lemon juice over it. Then add slowly the thick coconut milk, salt, pepper, and chopped onion. This proves to be a very good appetizer.

Sapsap

PINANGAT NA SAPSAP

25 pcs. small sapsap
2 tablespoonfuls lard

1 onion sliced
2 tomatoes

Clean the sapsap very thoroughly and rinse in salt water. Boil together the sliced tomatoes and onions. Add the sapsap; add salt to taste. When boiling add the lard and allow to simmer. Serve with patis or bagoong.

SINIGANG NA KANDULI

3 big kanduli
3 ripe tomatoes
Kangkong leaves

10 camias
2 tbsp. bagoong
1 green pepper

Clean the fish very well. Cut into pieces. Boil the sliced tomatoes, camias and bagoong with enough water in a saucepan. Take out the camias when soft, squeeze the juice and return it to the boiling water. Add the fish, pepper, kangkong leaves. Cook until tender. Santol may be used also instead of camias.

PRITONG KANDULI

Clean the fish and put a little salt. Prepare a hot frying pan and drop the kanduli. Remove when brown. Serve with ripe tomatoes.

SINIGANG NA TANGUINGI

4 slices tanguingi	8 camias
2 tbsp. bagoong	Kangkong leaves
2 tomatoes

Wash the fish. Boil water in a saucepan, add the sliced tomatoes and bagoong. After a few minutes drop the fish and kangkong leaves. Remove from fire when tender.

ALAMANG WITH TOMATOES

1 cup alamang	2 tomatoes
2 tbsp. lard	1 pinch of salt
1 slice garlic

Wash the alamang. Saute the tomatoes and salt, then add the alamang. Add a little water and cook until done.

TINAPANG KABASE WITH UPO

1/2 upo (young)	3 tomatoes
5 tinapang kabase	2 tbsp. bagoong
1/2 cup shrimps (dried)

Pare and slice the upo. Slice the tomatoes, peel the shrimps and the tinapa. Boil the water. Put in the tomatoes and bagoong, add the tinapa and shrimps. Later, drop the upo and boil until green and tender.

FRIED SAPSAP

12 sapsap
A pinch of salt

4 tbsp. lard

Clean the sapsap thoroughly. Heat the frying pan. Fry the sapsap until brown. Remove from the fire. Serve with tomatoes.

PAKSIW NA HASA-HASA

4 hasa-hasa
A pinch of salt

1 c. vinegar
1 pc. ginger

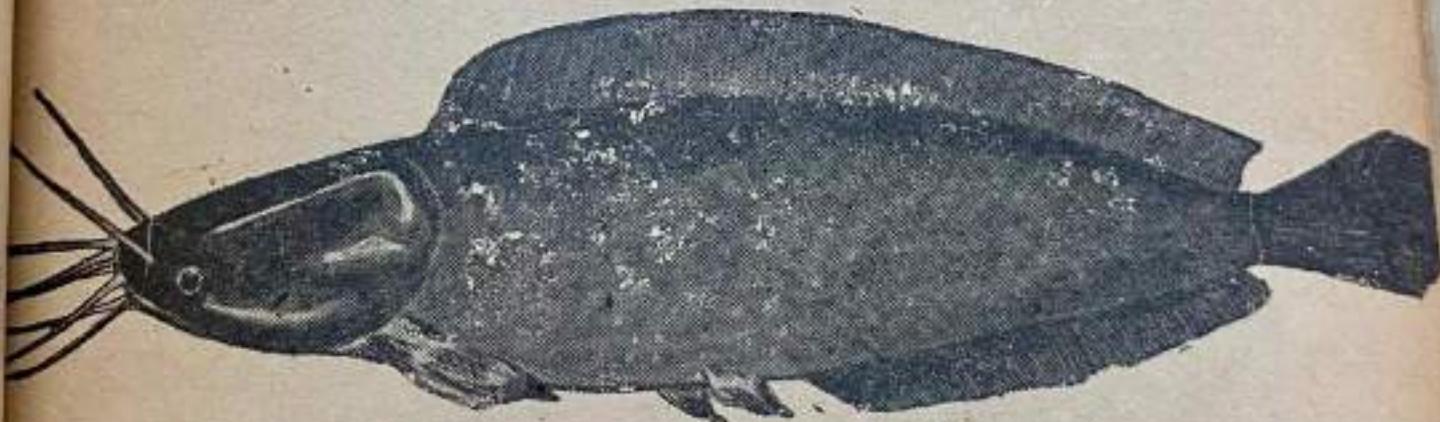

Clean the hasa-hasa and rub with salt. Place in saucepan and add the vinegar, salt and ginger. Boil until it is cooked. Serve with patis and bagoong.

PAKSIW NA BIA

2 bia
A pinch of salt

1 c. vinegar
1 pc. ginger

Clean and wash the fish. Place in a saucepan; add vinegar, salt and ginger. Boil until it is cooked. Serve with bagoong or patis.

ESCAPECHENG HITO

3 hito
A pinch of salt
3 tbsp. sugar

Lard for frying
A piece of ginger
1 slice garlic

Clean the fish and rub with salt. Make the slits in the body crosswise. Fry in deep hot fat. Remove from fat when brown. Dissolve the sugar in water. Sauté the hito in a little lard and ginger. Then add the dissolved sugar. Remove from fire after it has boiled once.

BROILED HITO

2 big hito

A pinch of salt

Clean the hito very well, and rub with salt. Prepare live coals and place the fish on a wire toaster. Broil until both sides are brown and tender.

Serve with buro or tomato sauce.

BROILED SAPSAP

10 sapsap

Sili leaves

2 tomatoes

1 tbsp. bagoong

Clean the sapsap. Put the water, tomatoes and bagoong together. When boiling, add the sapsap and pepper leaves. Remove from fire when done.

FRIED DILIS

1/2 l. dilis

3 tbsp. lard

Wash the dilis, and heat the frying pan. Fry the dilis little by little, until brown. Do not fry the whole group at once if you want to get a good result. Serve with tomatoes and onions.

DILIS WITH EGGS AND TOMATOES

1/2 l. dilis

2 eggs

2 tomatoes

1 onion

2 tbsp. lard

1 sliced garlic

Salt

Saute the garlic, onion, tomatoes. Add the dilis, then the beaten eggs and salt. Remove from fire when done.

BURONG HITO

5 hito

Angkak (2 tbsp.)

Salt

4 c. boiled rice

Wash and clean the hito well. Rub with salt. Boil the rice. The fish should be spread widely as in drying. Mix the rice and angkak, then add the fish. Press the mixture to exclude the air. Pack in covered earthen jars and should be covered tightly. After several days, see if the mixture is ready to be consumed.

SINIGANG NA DALAGANG BUKID

2 dalagang bukid
Kangkong

Sili leaves

Recipes on Baked or Chilled Fish

FISH FILLETS

2 pounds fish fillets
1 slice onion
2 cups of water
1 cup wine
1 tablespoon butter

Small amount of thyme, parsley, salt and pepper
1 tablespoon flour

Clean two soles and fillets and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Boil the bones and heads of the fish for about 30 minutes in 2 cups of water, 1 sliced onion, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup of wine and a small amount of parsley, thyme, salt and pepper. Strain the soup.

Bake the fillets for 30 minutes in a pan with 2 tablespoons butter and 1 cup of soup. Drain carefully and put the fillets on the platter, then add the drippings to the soup.

Mix one tablespoon of flour to a tablespoon of butter. Then gradually add all the soup, constantly stirring it. Boil until thick. Cool and add well beaten yolks of 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons of butter and cook again for 10 minutes. Pour this on the fillets and garnish with half moon slices of bread dipped in lightly beaten eggs, then in bread crumbs. Then fry until crisp and ready to serve.

FISH HASH

4 slices bacon
3 cups cooked fish, flaked

3 cups boiled potatoes diced
2 tablespoons onion diced

Crisp the bacon in a hot skillet, mix all the ingredients and place them in the frying pan with drippings. It should be fried like an omelet. Place the crisp bacon on top and then serve.

FISH MOUSSE

2 pounds fish fillets
1 cup chicken broth
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
3 egg yolks
1 bunch water cress

1 tablespoon horse radish
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup evaporated milk or heavy cream

Steam or simmer the fish till tender then chill it and flake coarsely with a fork.

The chicken broth should be combined with beaten egg yolks, salt and paprika in the top of a double boiler. Cook over hot water, constantly stirring it till thick and smooth.

Soften the gelatin meanwhile in cold water for 5 minutes. Then dissolve in the hot mixture and let it cool.

Add the fish, finely chopped water cress stems, horseradish, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce.

Chill the evaporated milk in the refrigerator tray until thoroughly chilled; whip and fold it right away into the fish mixture. Pour into a lightly oiled fish mold.

Unmold on a serving platter and garnish it with short sprays of water cress tied into bouquets. With salad dressing it will be more delicious of course.

Add another layer, finishing the top with bread crumbs and dots of butter. Pour on top the cup of white sauce. Heat through and cook until brown. The celery leaves should be rubbed fine to make the appearance of the pie attractive and appetizing to look at.

FRIED SKATE RAY

3 1/2 pounds chunk of skate wing	Flour seasoned with salt
Vinegar court bouillon	Pepper and nutmeg
	4 tablespoons butter or margarine

Simmer a mixture of 1 cup vinegar, 2 quarts cold water, 2 small sliced carrots, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 large size onion, 2 bay leaves, 2 cloves, a dozen pepper corns and 1 teaspoon thyme for 30 minutes.

This is done in case no vinegar court bouillon can be obtained. Strain the liquid off. Cut the skate into the desired serving. Simmer the fish in a quart of the court builion for about 15 minutes. Dry thoroughly and roll the pieces in the seasoned flour. Fry them in hot butter until they turn golden brown. Extra care should be made in turning to avoid them from falling apart.

BAKED FISH IN GREEN PEPPER

1 cup cooked fish flaked
1 cup bread crumbs
2-4 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon onion juice

1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Salt and pepper to taste
6-8 large green peppers

Mix the fish and bread crumbs with enough milk just to cause the fish and bread to cling together. Add the onion juice, lemon juice, parsley, pepper and salt; then thoroughly mix them together. The tops of the green peppers should be cut off and remove the seeds and the core. Stuff the peppers loosely with bread crumbs. Bake for about 30 minutes in an oven of 350° F.

1/2 pound crab meat	1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/2 pound dalagang bukid	1/4 teaspoon fennel
	1/4 teaspoon saffron
	Salt and pepper
	10-12 slices plain bread

Cut the fish into 2 inch pieces, separating the delicate-textured fish from the coarse-fleshed fish. Add other ingredients to the oil including the coarse one but not the tender ones. Cook for 8-10 minutes in a kettle over a hot flame, then add enough cold water to cover it. Then add the rest of the fish. Check the seasoning and add pepper and salt to your taste. Heat over a hot fire for 12-15 minutes so that the liquid boils vigorously for at least 5 minutes, allowing it to mix with oil.

Arrange the slices of plain bread on the bottom of a sewing dish or platter and strain the liquid portion of the hot mixture over them. Place in a separate platter the slices of fish, then sprinkle them with chopped parsley and serve as a side dish to the soup.

FISKESUPPE (Norway)

PRIMARY FISH COOKING METHODS

COOKING TERMS

Bake: Cook in an oven at a desired temperature. When applied to meat it is called roasting.

Baste: Add liquid to the surface of food, while cooking, by pouring, brushing, spooning or wiping with fat, drippings, etc.

Batter: A smooth mixture of flour, liquid and other ingredients which can be poured. May be used to coat food before frying.

Beat: Agitation of ingredients by means of a spoon, whisk, or mechanical or electric beater to insure a smooth, uniform mixture.

Blend: Combine ingredients homogeneously or evenly.

Boil: Cook with a liquid that has heated until large bubbles constantly rise to the surface. Water boils at 212°F. at sea level. When the liquid begins to boil the heat should be lowered as slow boiling is just as effective as fast boiling unless one is trying to reduce the volume of the cooking liquor.

Bread Crumbs: Dried crumbs are made by thoroughly crushing crusts of bread, well dried but not browned. They are used for coating fried foods. Soft bread crumbs are made by finely shredding fresh bread between the fingers. Used for dressing, thickenings, etc.

Broil: Cook on a rack, spit or skewer by the direct heat of a broiler, hot coals or charcoal.

Brine: Mixture of salt and water. Preferably American salt.

Chill: Place a food in a cool or cold place until the temperature is lowered to a point between freezing and normal room temperature.

Chop: Cut into small pieces by use of a knife, not by the use of a good grinder.

Cream: To make a mixture smooth, soft and creamlike by stirring or beating.

Dice: Cut a food into small cubes by use of a knife.

Dissolve: Mix a solid or powdered substance with a liquid.

Double Boiler: Combination of one pan set in another so that one can cook in the upper pan over boiling or hot water in the lower pan.

Dredge: To coat a solid food with a powdering or sprinkling of flour, sugar, corn meal or similar product.

(°F.): This symbol designates degrees of temperature by the Fahrenheit scale.

Fillet: Fleshy boneless side of a fish or boneless piece of meat.

Fold in: Addition of a light fluffy substance to a liquid or semi-solid mixture so that the combined product maintains some of the lightness. Usually done by carefully lifting the heavier material over the lighter to entrap the air. This procedure is repeated until the two materials are fairly well mixed.

Fry: Cook in hot fat. Pan fry or sauté — using just a film of fat.

Grate: Shred a substance up fine by use of a metal abrasive device. Usually used for lemon peel, hard-cooked eggs, cheese, etc.

Julienne: Cut food in thin lengthwise strips. FILIPINIANA

Lard: Place strips of fat in lean meat either by drawing it through the meat or laying it in deep cuts on the surface.

Liquor: The fluid from meat or vegetables.

Marinate: Place a food in an acid-fat mixture (marinade), usually French dressing, until well seasoned.

Mashed: Crushed in some manner so that the food is finer or more plastic in form.

Mince: Chop up real fine.

Parboil: Boil food in water until partially cooked.

Puree: A semi-liquid form of a food ground up fine and well mixed.

Sauté: Fry in a thin layer of fat.

Shell: Remove the outer coat layer of a seed, nut or shellfish.

Shuck: Same meaning as shell.
 Simmer: Cook in liquid, just below boiling — usually at a temperature of 185°F.
 Skewers: Wooden or metal pins of various lengths and sizes used to impale food.
 Steam: Cook on a rack above boiling liquid, in a closed container so that the heat of the steam does the cooking.
 Stock: Liquid in which meat, vegetables or fish has been cooked.
 Toothpick: Small splinter of wood used to clean out the crevices between the teeth or to close cavities in cooking meats and to impale bits of food for better handling.

METHODS OF FISH COOKING

BAKED FISH

Usually the whole fish, without the entrails, is used for baking. When thoroughly clean, the fish is rubbed inside and out with salt, or soaked a few minutes in a brine, stuffed loosely with a favorite stuffing and the opening sewed or fastened in some way to prevent the stuffing from falling out. Some cooks use cheesecloth or stockinette cloth wrapped around the fish. This has the dual function of keeping the fish closed and helping to maintain the original shape. However, when removed, the cheesecloth pulls off the skin and bits of flesh, besides possibly causing the breaking of the fish, by too much handling.

The fish is placed on a greased rack in a moderate oven (375°.) and baked uncovered for about 10 minutes per pound of fish under four pounds and 15 minutes per pound for fish over that weight. Fish that dries out excessively should be brushed with a fatty dressing or covered with strips of bacon. Another method for a 3-5-pound fish is to bake for 10 minutes at 500°F. followed by a like period of time at 400°F.

Small fish, steaks and fillets can be wet with salted milk, brushed evenly with dried bread crumbs and placed in an oiled baking pan. After sprinkling with a little oil, bake the fish in a very hot oven (500°F - 600°F.) for about 10 minutes. This method is only successful when dried bread crumbs are used as the coating medium.

BOILED FISH

Wrap the whole fish in cheesecloth or cooking parchment paper and lay the fish on a rack. Add enough water to cover the fish, season with 1 tablespoon of salt and 1/2 tablespoon of lemon juice per quart of water. Onions, bay leaves carrots, ginger and other flavoring agents may be added if desired. Bring the water to a boil and then simmer until it is done. This condition is indicated by the flesh separating, somewhat, from the bones. It usually takes about 10 minutes per pound for thin fish and a little more for thick fish.

When boiling fish slices, they must not be too thin (1/2 to 2/3 inches thick is recommended). The prepared water should be boiling when they are put in and the heat must be lowered immediately. The water should be held just below the simmering point until the fish is done. This difference in procedure from that used in cooking the whole fish is used because the boiling water seals the juice in the slices and thus keeps them from drying out, while the flesh of a whole fish would split and have an undesirable appearance with the same treatment.

To increase the whiteness of white fleshed fish, milk at the rate of one part to one eighth of water can be added. Boiled fish is particularly appetizing with a tasty sauce, fresh parsley and white potatoes or rice.

STEAMED FISH

Steaming uses the same type of fish as boiling. The fish is thoroughly seasoned with salt and pepper and placed on an oiled tray in the well of a steam cooker or over boiling water. The cooking time is about the same as for boiled fish.

POACHED FISH

Place sole or other tender fish on a buttered baking tray. Season with salt and dampen the whole fish with mushroom puree or soup. Cover the pan and place in a moderate oven (350° F.). Baste from time to time with mushroom soup or thickened fish broth and a little fat. When the fish is done (about 10 minutes per pound for small fish and 15 minutes per pound for large fish), the poaching liquor can be made into a sauce and served with the fish.

For broiling use small fish, fillets, steaks and deeply gashed, tender, large fish.

BROILED FISH

The fish should be placed 2-3 inches from the flame and turned when brown. The complete process should not take over 10 minutes, but of course this time period varies with the size and tenderness of the fish and the heat of the fire.

Broiled fish is excellently served with parsley, lemon, anchovy butter or deviled sauce.

Fish differs from other meats being broiled in that medium flame is better than a hot flame and that basting liquor will enter into the flesh rather than just clinging to the outside.

FRIED FISH

By fried fish, pan frying is usually indicated. Small fish, steaks and fillets can be fried. The fish is dipped into salted milk, rolled in a mixture of flour and corn meal and fried in a thin layer of hot fat. Use regular cooking fats as butter smokes and breaks down at relatively low temperature. Cook on both sides until brown, usually about 10 minutes altogether.

Small fish and small pieces of fish may be dipped in an egg batter, rolled in bread crumbs and fried from 5 to 10 minutes, depending on the size of the fish or pieces. Serve a pan-fried fish with parsley and lemon. Contrary to the general practice the French use a very hot butter to fry in and roll the fish in flour and seasoning. The fish is fried until brown and served with a few drops of lemon juice.

Another method of serving is to scald some chopped parsley and place it on the hot fish. Then a piece of butter is heated until it froths slightly. This is poured over the parsley where it froths vigorously.

DEEP-OIL PAN FRIED AND DEEP-FAT FRIED FISH

The former requires cooking oil to a depth of about one inch and the latter utilizes deep fat. Both are most efficient at a temperature of 375° F.

The fish should be cut up into serving portions, rolled in a mixture of flour and cornmeal or dipped in egg and rolled in bread crumbs. Then carefully drop the fish into the fat and turn when brown. When deep fat frying it is better to use one layer of fish in a wire basket and immerse this in the fat. When the fish rises to the top, remove it and drain on absorbent paper.

PLANKED FISH

Planked fish is a combination of baking and broiling. The split fish is laid skin down on a hard wood fish plank or oven-ware glass platter. It is salted and peppered and brushed with oil or French dressing. It is then placed in a 400° F. oven for 20-25 minutes, followed by broiling for a few minutes, until a rich brown color is obtained. It may be surrounded with mashed potatoes or broiled tomatoes and returned for another short broil to lightly brown the vegetables. A parsley garnish on the fish with a few slices of lemon makes this an attractive dish when served piping hot.

FAMILY FOOD PLAN FOR A FAMILY WITH A LOW INCOME

(Courtesy of the Institute of Nutrition)

A family food plan, like any other family spending plan, must be workable to be of any value. It must work when things are running along in normal fashion; and with adjustments it should work when emergencies arise. The carrying out of all food spending plans calls for continuous head work and as one homemaker of experience said: "just a lot of plain common sense."

If you have between five to six pesos a day for food, you should feel happier than one who has to feed a big family of eight or ten on three pesos a day. Yet, if we ask a homemaker how she manages on her food allowance of P180.00 a month she will invariably start a long trade against food costs and on her multitudinous woes about menu planning and food preparation.

While we do not wish to dwell so much on the housekeeping problem of a lady who can spend P6.00 a day for food, we do feel that she still needs our help if she is to keep her family on the road to good nutrition. Our one day's menu and market order for a family of five is as follows:

BREAKFAST MENU

Papaya
Fresh Tomatoes
Milk for Children

Langoniza
Enriched Rice
Salabat

LUNCHEON MENU

Vegetable Soup
Pickled Kangkong
Bananas

Pork and Liver Adobo
Enriched Rice

SUPPER MENU

Clam Soup with Pepper leaves
Alugbati Salad
Avocado with Milk

Fried Fish
Enriched Rice

It helps greatly in food selection to keep in mind certain facts about the following six common food groups:

- (1) Milk contains the greatest assortment of nutritive substance of all single food materials, and constitutes the foundation upon which an adequate diet can most safely and most easily be constructed.
- (2) The grains are primarily sources of energy and secondarily of protein, not always adequate by itself, but when properly supplemented, would be of great practical value. Only by use of the whole grains or the enriched forms does this class of food stuffs become important for mineral elements or vitamins.
- (3) Vegetables and fruits are of greatest significance for their mineral elements and vitamins. Only certain member of the group are good sources of calories, and still fewer of proteins.
- (4) Fish, eggs, cheese, nuts, meat, fowl, and game are of prime significance for their yield of proteins of excellent quality. Eggs and cheese are also of the greatest value for certain mineral elements and vitamins. Whether or not meats make other valuable contributions to the diet depends upon the part of the animal which is represented; for example, liver and kidney are valuable for vitamin A, thiamine, and riboflavin. Pork muscle is an exception, furnishing also considerable amounts of thiamine.

(5) Fats are primarily sources of calories in concentrated form. In certain cases they are also carriers of the fat-soluble vitamins A and D., e.g., butter, fortified margarine, and certain fish liver oils.

(6) Sugars, like fats, are sources of calories. Pure sugars contribute nothing else.

FAMILY SPENDING PLAN FOR GOOD NUTRITION FOR A FAMILY WITH MODERATELY LOW INCOME

(Courtesy of the Institute of Nutrition)

We bring to you a family spending plan for a moderately low income. We say moderately low because there was a time before the war when to earn between ₱300 to ₱400 a month was to be on Easy Street. People who earn ₱300 a month are as economically miserable as those who have to make both ends meet at minimum wage level. When you have to think of the present cost of food in the City of Manila, housing, clothing and operating expenses, it takes real genius to put money away for savings.

A family earning between ₱300 a month and ₱400 a month would be spending approximately 41.9% for food. (Institute of Nutrition Living Costs of Family Income Class in the City of Manila, 1949.) This would be approximately ₱135.00 a month if the family is to have an allowance of 3.5% for light and water; 5.3% for household supplies; 5.9% for clothing; 4% for medical supplies including toilet articles; 7.5% for insurance and 16% for miscellaneous expenses.

A family whose income falls between ₱300 and ₱400 a month would be spending approximately 41.9% of this income for food. This percentage is based on a post-war study made by the Institute of Nutrition on "Living Costs per Family Income Class in the City of Manila." This would be approximately P135.00 a month for food or P4.50 a day. Planning a day's menu for a family of five we find it rather difficult to choose from Institute of Nutrition Leaflet No. 17 on "Moderate Cost Menus for the Family" and adjust expenses. Hence we have chosen a menu from Institute of Nutrition Leaflet No. 16 on "Low Cost Menus for the Family." The menu and market order for one day is given below:
