I N T R O D U C T I O N

THE KITCHEN recipes of Mr. Hizon (I won't call him his real name as, the modest man that he is, he may prefer anonymity) will probably never be published, at least not in the form in which he originally wrote them. But I know of no better anthology of Pampango cooking (there I go again on this subject, I'm afraid).

There are 113 recipes in all and they run the gamut of the provincial cuisine - common and fiesta native fare, as well as dishes adapted from the Chinese and European repertoire.

Perhaps the adaptations may not properly be called Pampango cooking. But they have become so much a part of the middle-class Pampango cuisine that they are no longer exactly foreign, either.

I first came to know of the existence of Mr. Hizon's recipes when we fell to talking one day about family trees (his, not mine). Mr. Hizon has in fact written a book on the genealogy of his kinsmen. In 1936, after the death of his first wife, he took charge of the running of his household, including the kitchen department. He volunteered this information quite casually, but the talk soon veered from joint surnames to fish and vegetables.

"You may not believed it," he said, "but during that time all the dishes prepared in my household were tested and recorded by me. Everyday I would prepare the menu, writing down everything for the cook."

I said I was curious to see his culinary anthology, and Mr. Hizon brought it all the way from his hometown a week later to show to me. There it was, all right, one inch thick, typed on bond paper, which had been discolored by time. The 100-odd pages are meticulously indexed, with the recipe number, the name of the dish, number of servings, and cost of ingredients.

Mr. Hizon called my attention to this last feature. "See the cost of this Arroz a la Cubana? Only 33 centavos! And this Almendras at Manoc (unlike the Tagalog, Pampango orthography has c instead of k) is only 1 peso and 27 centavos for four persons. Look at this full-sized ham de funda - only 8 pesos and 66 centavos! And betute (stuffed frog) for three people is 67 centavos! How low has the peso fallen since then!"

RECIPE 52
FISH SINIGANG, etc.

Mr. Hizon, it will be seen from the foregoing, is a meticulous man of the old school, and leaves nothing to chance, especially in matters culinary. This is not just a whim, for he is also a scholar whose researches into Pampango history and culture have resulted in several mimeographed tomes and printed booklets, some of which have found their way into libraries in the U.S. In addition he dabbles in chemistry and now and then still markets his own insecticides, fire-fighting sprays and fertilizers. Every other week or so he takes the bus to Manila and delves into the archives of the public libraries and the Beyer collection, or discusses a paper he is writing with his former teachers at the Ateneo.

I think of Mr. Hizon as the product of an older Filipino culture, in which it was nothing unusual for men of modest property to cultivate the role of educated gentlemen and take themselves somewhat more seriously than the Filipinos of today. There were of course caciques in the old days to whom learning was alien. But there did exist gentlefolk who went in for literature, music and the arts, whereas today these interests are apt to be found only among the book-reading young proletarians.

CULTURAL CONSENSUS awards to Pampango cooking the country's culinary laurels. This skill has to a great degree been influenced by the bountiful resources of the province. Its plains are a source of fertile plants and animal life; its great river yields fish. Economic organization afforded a land-owning aristocracy centuries of gracious living that had ceaselessly seep down to the poorer classes. Pampanga's proximity to the urban center assured the steady assimilation of foreign cultural influences.

Pampanga cooking is today blended of European and Chinese, with native influences, lovingly practiced and expanded by amateur and professional cooks.

Mariano A. Henson is an old Pampango gentleman who has gathered what is perhaps the best anthology of Pampango cooking. Henson, a historian, genealogist, chemist, and connoisseur, for years tested and recorded all the dishes prepared in his household. In this manner, he was able to collect 100-odd recipes ranging from fiesta to ordinary fare. Some of these recipes are lifted from Henson's unpublished anthology and here presented for STM readers.

No attempt has been made to translate into English the recipes herein contained for reasons that the Author hopes to make clear presently. First, it has seemed appropriate that they appear as originally written, in Pampango, as a tribute to this beautiful language. Second, translation would have been next to impossible in many cases, such as the names of certain ingredients and the description of mixing and cooking methods. This difficulty will readily become apparent to the reader as he proceeds to examine this little book.

SUAM MAIZ - Thick stewed soup
of corn

10 regular-size tender yellow corn
1 level tablespoon imported butter (not margarine)
3 large cloves garlic, peeled
4 cups boiling water
1 heaping teaspoon salt
1 level teaspoon refined sugar
3 tablespoon evaporated milk
20 chili leaves without fruit.

Grate corn. Brown garlic in butter in low flame. Add corn, stirring three minutes. Pour over boiling water and stir for another 10 minutes. Add salt, sugar and milk with stirring in between. Lastly, drop chili leaves. Serve at once. Good for six servings.

PEPITORIANG MANUC-
Chicken fricassee

1 regular-size year-old native chicken
1 chicken liver mashed
4 cups boiling water for stock
2 tablespoon pork lard
1 Bermuda onion, minced, peeled
3 sprigs parsley, minched
1 heaping teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon black pepper powder
1 teaspoon American lemon (not calamansi) juice
Yolk of 2 eggs beaten
1 heaping tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in little cold water
4 large cloves garlic, mashed, peeled

Clean, singe, wash sparingly and cut up chicken. Place it in pot and nearly cover with boiling water. Cover pot and simmer gently one hour with occasional stirring. Remove from fire. Skim out chicken and reserve stock.

Melt lard in low fire and saute garlic lightly. Add chicken and baste five minutes. Pour over stock with lemon. Season with parsley, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer until tender (about 2 to 3 hours). Add liver, yolk and cornstarch stirring until slightly thickened. Serve at once in two platters.

LAGAT UTAC
Choice stew of brains

1/2 kilo ox brains (1- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup net)
1 teaspoon salt dissolved in
1 cup water
1 teaspoon American lemon (not calamansi) juice
1 egg beaten with
1 teaspoon evaporated milk and
1 teaspoon flour
1/2 biscuit (bizcocho de caña), crumbs
1 clove garlic, minced, peeled
1/4 Bermuda onion, minced, peeled
1 sprig parsley, minced
1/4 cup pork lard
Dash of cinnamon powder

Clean brains of membranes and blood. Rinse in cold water.

Boil five minutes in salt water. Drain and marinate 30 minutes in lemon juice, garlic, onion, parsley, dressing. Roll in biscuit moistened with egg and milk, then in biscuit again. Let stand a few moments to dry. Fry in hot lard at 300 degrees F. and baste constantly until golden brown. Drain and dust with cinnamon.

RECIPE No. 117

QUILAW CAMBING
Relish of goat cocktail

1 kilo Goat's meat
40 heads red native onions, peeled and minced
10 red native chili labuyo, crushed
Juice of 3 American lemons
1 tablespoon "Tanduay" dry gin
1 teaspoon "Lea & Perrins" worcestershire sauce
1 level teaspoon French mustard
1 heaping tablespoon salt

Select a castrated native goat eight months to one year old. No food but water should be given 24 hours before slaughtering. Brush dirt out of hair. After slaughtering, hang goat from hind legs. Skin from legs down to neck, trying not to cut or tear thin membrane under hide. Avoid rubbing goat's hair against flesh.

Rinse incisions from top to bottom every time first with water and lastly with strong vinegar. To skip cartilages, the flesh should be gently scraped with a keen curved-edge (cabasi) native knife.

To the raw meat pour over gin, worcestershire, lemon, mustard, chili and salt, and lastly the onions, in alternate thorough kneading. Marinate two hours in dressing. Serve in two platters as cocktail in between sips of high-balls or Courvoisier cognac.

The surplus meat of the goat can be made into delicious Caldereta.

The skinned head can be cooked into soup flavored with Alibangbang (Bauhinia malabarica Roxb. - Balibamban in Pampango) leaves and tomatoes. See Recipe No. 124 for Caldereta.

ATSARANG CAPAMPANGAN
Pampango sweet-sour mixed
pickles

10 green native papayas 6 inches long, pared, seeded, grated
1 level tablespoon salt
4 heads garlic, finely sliced, peeled
10 heads red native onion, finely sliced, peeled
3 cups year-old clear cane vinegar
3 finger-size carrots, grated
3 cloves (clavos de especia)
1 finger-size ginger, crushed, peeled
10 red-ripe sweet pimientos small size, seeded and finely sliced
20 limoncitos (Triphasia trifolia (Burm) P. Wils.), seeded
1 kilo refined sugar

Mix salt and papayas. Wrap in cheesecloth and squeeze out sap. Sun dry papayas. Boil vinegar with ginger two minutes. Skim out and discard ginger. Pour it over little by little sugar, garlic, onions, carrots, cloves, pimientos, limoncitos and papayas. Boil one minute further. Keep in dry clean covered bottle when not served. Good for a table serving of six.

DUAYAN LIN ANNAM
Appetizing delicatessen

1- $\frac{1}{2}$  cups granulated sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup cold water
8 native eggs, of which remove 4 egg whites
12 native "cereza" (Muntingia Calabura L.) fruits, seeded
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon vanilla extract
2 tablespoon imported butter (not margarine)
2 tablespoon Edam cheese, grated
1 tall tin evaporated milk Alpine
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup creamy carabao milk
5 small "mamon" muffins, mashed
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup "macapuno" coconut meat, scraped with the native
"sacabocados"
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup "casoy" nuts, roasted but not browned, chopped &
Cinnamon powder

Dissolve sugar in water. Beat eggs. Add cereza, vanilla, butter and cheese, little by little, with constant stirring. Likewise the milk and muffins and lastly macapuno and casoy. Blend all mixtures thoroughly. Bake in greased loaf pan or native "llenera" in moderate oven at 250 degrees F. about one hour until brown. Empty out when cold and dust lightly with cinnamon powder.
