INTRODUCTION

The S. S. Wright is one of several married couples' clubs at Ellinwood-Malate Church, Malate, Manila. It is named after a missionary who devoted many years to serving that church. It is also named like a ship because its main goal is to help its members sail successfully through the sea of matrimony which is sometimes stormy, sometimes serene, always challenging.

Believing that one of the best ways of ensuring a safe, happy, and successful marriage is by having the family work, play, eat, and pray together, our members have undertaken varied activities that involve most, if not all, of the individuals in our families. For example, we have had our children act out the Easter story in our celebrations to bring home to them the meaning of Christ's death and resurrection. We have had groups studying ecology and pollution. We have gone camping for days or overnight in the mountains, on the beach, or even just on a member's spacious lawn. We have listened to lectures and participated in discussions on drugs, sex education, and other problems encountered in bringing up children.

Not the least of our interests has been a constant search for new and interesting ways of feeding our families with meals that taste yummy, are attractive in appearance, rich in value, and economically priced. Over the years, our club meetings have generally included potluck dinners, with each family bringing a special or favorite dish. Invariably, at these dinners, there would be one or two dishes that were most delicious, easy to prepare, fairly cheap, and very nutritious. Knowing that parents everywhere are interested in providing the best meals that they can afford for their families, we decided to share the results of our study and experience, at the same time, raising funds for our church.

In these days of continually rising prices and the population boom, we are confident that this cookbook will be a welcome help to harassed mothers wondering what to feed their ravenous or finicky youngsters, to newly married wives who are sometimes awed or baffled by complicated and confusing cookbooks, and all others who are interested in planning and preparing meals that are tempting, varied, balanced, tasty, and yet within the reach of their pocketbooks.

AUSTRALIAN LAMB STEW

1 kilo shoulder of lamb, boned	$\frac{1}{2}$ kilo onions, chopped
2 tbsp. drippings or oil	$\frac{1}{2}$ kilo carrots, chopped
4 tbsp. browned flour	1 tbsp. tomato paste
2 cups beef stock, or water and beef stock cube	chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, crushed	salt and pepper

Cut meat into 1-inch cubes and fry in drippings until brown on all sides. Add onions and carrots and fry until onion is soft. Stir in browned flour, cook for a few minutes over a low heat. Add tomato paste and stock and bring to a boil, stirring continuously. Add garlic and salt and pepper to taste. Cover and simmer over a low heat for 1-1 $\frac{1}{2}$ hours or until meat is tender. To brown flour: spread a quantity of plain flour on a baking tray in a moderately hot oven (375-400°F) until lightly brown. Remove, break up with rolling pin and sieve. Do not force small lumps through as they will cause lumps in the sauce. Use as required to thicken and color sauces. It gives a slight nuttiness to the flavor. 10-12 servings.

1 kilo chicken, cut up	freshly ground black pepper
2 green peppers	3 tbsp. oil

$\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. chopped garlic	pinch of dried rosemary

Scald tomatoes in a large pot of briskly boiling water for 10 seconds, lift them out with perforated spoon and plunge into cold water. Cut out stem and peel off skin; quarter tomatoes and cut away pulp and seeds. Slice into $\frac{1}{4} \times 2\frac{1}{2}$ strips and drain on paper towel. Wash chicken and pat dry. Sprinkle with salt and few grindings of pepper.

Heat oil in large heavy pan and brown chicken over moderate heat, a few pieces at a time and when brown, remove to a dish. Pour off almost all the fat from the pan, leaving just a thin firm at the bottom. Add onions and garlic, cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly for about 3 minutes until soft and lightly brown. Toss in pepper and rosemary and stir for a minute or two. Add tomatoes and cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes. Return chicken pieces to the pan and spread vegetables over and around them. Cover pan tightly and simmer over low heat, basting every 10 minutes or so with the pan juices that the vegetables and chicken give off. The chicken should be done in about 30 minutes. To serve, arrange chicken on heated serving dish. Remove vegetables from the pan using perforated spoon, let drain and spread over the chicken. Boil the remaining liquid in the pan over high heat for 2-3 minutes, stirring frequently, until thick and syrupy. Taste for seasoning and pour it over the chicken. Serve at once. 4 servings.

SANDWICHES

HAMBURGERS

hamburger meat	vetsin
gourmet sauce or worcestershire sauce	onions
dry milk powder	garlic
bread crumbs	salt
	pepper

Mix with your hand the meat, sauce, vetsin, onions and garlic. Add dry milk powder for this is good nutritionally and helps absorb the juices. To stretch the meat, add bread crumbs; season with salt and pepper. Form into thin patties larger than the buns. (Note: use hamburger and not ground roundsteak as the roundsteak does not have enough fat to fry well.

Heat skillet. Do not put any oil in the skillet. Put in 3 hamburger patties. They should brown quickly, but not burn. When brown, turn over. The patties shrink while cooking and become thicker, so start with thin patties so they will cook evenly. Remove juice or fat that accumulates before frying next patties. For cheeseburgers, top with slice of cheese a few minutes before hamburger is finished. Cover to help soften the cheese.

Buns: you may toast hamburger buns first under broiler. A nice touch is to brush tops with beaten eggs and sprinkle with sesame seed. Bake briefly to set egg.

CORNED BEEF FILLING

1 can corned beef	1 cup catsup
1 cup chopped onions	1 tbsp. shortening

Melt shortening. Cook onions until soft. Add catsup and corn beef and cook for ten minutes. Serve hot on toasted hamburger buns.

SLOPPY JOES

1 kilo ground beef
 ½ cup chopped onions
 1 can chicken gumbo soup
 Brown meat and onions. Add other ingredients. Mix thoroughly.
 Serve over hamburger buns.

½ cup catsup
 1-2 tbsp. prepared mustard
 salt and pepper as desired

1 loaf of sandwich bread cheese, grated

butter toothpicks

Cut off the edges of each slice of bread and butter. Spread with grated cheese and roll up, using toothpicks to fasten the roll. Place close together in a baking pan and bake at 425° until light brown. Serve hot. These are good when served with soup and fruit salad.

	½ tsp. salt

Drain oil from tuna and flake the fish. Add lemon juice, mayonnaise, celery, and pepper. Add salt and blend well. Spread on 4 slices of buttered bread, using ¼ cup of the tuna mixture to each slice. Top with buttered bread, buttered side down; then spread the butter on top of bread, lay cucumber slices on top, sprinkle lightly with salt and top with remaining bread. tomato slice. Blend $\frac{1}{2}$ cup mayonnaise with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup shredded cheese and spread on tomato slices. Broil 4 inches from heat until the topping puffs and browns. Makes 6 servings. For variation you may substitute 2 5-oz. cans of shrimp or 1 7½-oz. can of crab for the tuna.

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped parsley

Make a ham salad filling by mixing cooked ham, sweet pickles, mustard, and mayonnaise. Parsley butter: mix parsley, soft butter, and a little salt. For cheese pimiento, add the chopped pimiento to the grated cheese (Queso de Bola may be used) and mix well. Butter a slice of bread and spread ham salad filling on it. Top it with another slice of buttered bread with the butter side down. Spread the parsley butter on this second layer and top it with another slice of bread. Butter the top of this slice and spread with cheese-pimiento filling. Top this with another slice of buttered bread. (You may use all white bread or alternate whole wheat and white bread.) EASY PIZZA

1 pkg. dry yeast or $2\frac{1}{2}$ tsp.
1 cup warm water
 $3\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted enriched flour

1 tbsp. olive oil
1 tsp. salt

Soften active dry yeast in warm water. Dip in $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of the flour. Mix in 1 tbsp. of olive oil and salt. Stir in remaining flour. Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic for about 12 minutes. Dough will be very firm. Place in lightly-greased mixing bowl. Turn to bring greased side up. Cover and let dry in a warm place until more than double, about 1½ hours. Punch down, cover, and place in the refrigerator until cold. Cut dough into 2 parts on lightly floured greased cooky sheet or 12-inch pizza pan turning edges of dough up lightly. Gash bottom about every 2 inches to prevent bubbles. Brush crust with 1 tbsp. olive oil. Fill and bake. Makes 2 crusts. Bake at 450°F for about 15 to 20 minutes.

(Filling of Pizza)

4 tbsp. cooking oil	4 tbsp. chopped onions

½ cup shredded cheese	anchovy fillets
1 bay leaf	pepper to taste

Heat oil in pan and saute garlic, onion, ham sausage, and green pepper. Stir in tomato sauce, bay leaf, salt, and pepper. Cook for 3 minutes and place on crust. Sprinkle with shredded cheese and form a lattice appearance with the washed anchovy fillets. Garnish with slices of olives. Bake in hot oven 450°F for about 15 to 20 minutes.

Both the Easy and Quick Pizza recipes make a good crisp crust. The Easy Pizza is easier to spread, but the advantage of the Quick Pizza dough is that you can make it at the last minute.

POPCORN BALLS

½ cup popcorn	syrup
6 tbsp. butter or margarine

Place 3 tbsps of butter in 2-3 quart sauce pan. Heat until 1 kernel of corn dropped in pan pops; add ¼ cup popcorn, reduce heat, and shake over heat until corn stops popping. Place popped corn in large pan. Repeat the process with remaining popcorn. Pour syrup over popcorn. Stir well. Mold into balls about 4" in diameter, but do not pack too hard.

(Syrup)

½ cup corn syrup	1 tbsp. vinegar
1 cup sugar	1 tbsp. butter melted
½ cup boiling water	1 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. cream of tartar	pinch of baking soda

Combine syrup, sugar, water, and vinegar. Heat to boiling. Add cream of tartar. Boil to hard crack stage (275° - 280° F). Remove from heat. Add butter, baking soda, and vanilla.

LASAGNE

- 400 grams pork sausage
200 grams hamburger
6-8 pieces Lasagne noodles
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup onions
salt
6 family size cans (12 oz.)

- Hunt's or Del Monte Spanish
Tomato sauce
1 4-oz. carton cottage cheese
1 kilo grated cheese, use mozzarella if you can

Cook sausage until no longer pink. Drain from fat and set aside. Remove most of fat from pan. Brown onion. Add hamburger and cook until it becomes light brown. Do not overcook meats. Add salt.

Pour half a can of tomato sauce in bottom of casserole. Place layer of noodles (3 pieces should cover the casserole). Sprinkle $\frac{1}{2}$ of the sausage and $\frac{1}{2}$ of the cottage cheese over the needles. Spread $\frac{1}{2}$ can of tomato sauce over the top. For next layer use all the hamburger, half the grated cheese, and $\frac{1}{2}$ can of sauce. The third layer is the same as the first — sausage, cottage cheese, sauce, noodles. On the top layer spread all the leftover meat, cheese, and sauce. Cover. Bake at 350° for 1 hour.

(LASAGNE NOODLES)

Beat eggs and salt together. Add flour until you make a dough that is stiff. Divide into fifteen pieces. Shape them into pieces the size of your thumb. Cover and let stand for $\frac{1}{2}$ hour. Roll out each piece on floured surface (or tile is good) until 13" long. The noodles stretch and then shrink back at first, so roll them until they keep their shape. They should be about the thickness of a cartolina. Let dry. Store in air-tight container. To cook: boil in salted water about 15 minutes. Handle carefully so they do not break. Drain well. You can rinse in cool water if you wish to cool them.

The recipe given here makes 15 noodles. This is enough for a 9" x 13" casserole plus one smaller one. If you don't want to make an extra casserole, use the leftover noodles in the soup. It is somewhat easier to make the dough in two batches using the amounts listed above.

Lasagne is very good for a buffet party. If you allow time for it to cool after taking it out of the oven, it will hold together better when served, and it will taste better. Good with green salad, garlic bread, soft drinks.

NOTE: For pork sausage, you can use the recipe on page 5.

FEEDING YOUR BABY

BEFORE BIRTH:

A mother must be well-nourished as the growing baby gets all his nutrients from her. She should eat double portions of body-building foods and of protective foods.

Body-building foods (protein foods) — these are fish, meat, milk, mongo, and other dried beans. Best buys are egg, dried fish (especially dilis), liver, and mongo.

Protective foods (vitamin and mineral foods) — these are green, leafy vegetables, yellow vegetables, yellow fruits. The best nutrition for the money comes from carrots, gabi leaves, malunggay, camote, mangoes, and "mais."

MILK:

Breast-feeding should begin immediately, as the colostrum helps prevent disease. Milk comes in on the third day. You should breast feed for at least 6-8 months.

Bottle feeding is expensive and risky, but if you have to bottle feed, use evaporated milk (not filled milk) or the special powdered milk for babies. Your doctor will give the correct formula. Be sure to sterilize bottles, nipples, and milk correctly.

SOLID FOODS:

Since breast milk does not increase after 4-6 months, it is necessary to add other foods. Many babies 6-12 months old are half-starved because they are given only milk and "lugaw" (soft cooked rice). Poor nutrition in the early years of a child's life affects physical and mental development.

Begin early

4-6 months: mashed and sieved cereals, vegetables, fruits and meat.

7-9 months: mashed only

10-12 months: soft foods

12 + months: family food with extra body-building and protective foods.

Be generous

Before 6 months: breast feed first, then give small meals 1-3 times a day.

After 6 months: 3-5 meals a day. Milk may be given by a cup with the meal followed by breast feeding.

Balanced diet

Staple foods: rice, mais, camote, gabi

Body-building foods: fish, shellfish, dilis, shrimp, egg, milk, chicken, liver, mongo, other beans, finely ground peanuts.

Vegetables (green leafy or yellow): malunggay, carrots

Yellow fruit: mango, papaya, lacatan banana

Vegetable oil: a little each day after 7 months.

Like everyone else, babies like food that tastes good. However, highly seasoned food is not good for young babies.

CAMOTE AND MONGO MASH

2 tbsp. camote	1 tbsp. sugar
2 tbsp. mongo beans	1 cup water
1 tbsp. milk powder

Boil beans until soft ($\frac{1}{2}$ -1 hour). Mash. Boil unpeeled camote until soft, 10-20 minutes. Remove skin and mash. Mix and sieve for small infant. Mix sugar, milk, and water. Add to other ingredients. Simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve warm.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS:

1. Boil chicken to make a broth lightly seasoned with salt. Cook vegetables such as carrots, white potato, camote, leafy green vegetables or sayote in the broth. You may add a little fish. When vegetables and fish are very soft, mash them well. Mix with broth. When cooking soup for the family, put vegetables for the baby in the soup. Remove when soft and mash.

2. Add wheat germ to rice, vegetables, soup for added nourishment.

3. Use graham crackers in place of cereal. Break into pieces and mix with milk. If you are travelling, this is an easy way to take the cereal with you.

4. Boil mongo beans until very soft. Mash. Add a little sugar and milk. For older children, add ice and serve like halo-halo.

5. Though lacatan bananas have a good supply of vitamins, they are usually too hard for babies under 8 months. Choose a softer variety.

6. Use canned or packaged soups after baby is 6 months old. Choose cream soups first. Later add vegetable soup. However, do not give corn kernels.

7. Gelatin and gulaman are high in food value and popular with babies.

SPECIAL DIETS FOR THE SICK

At one time or another, someone in the family is apt to come down with the "runs." Doctors call it various names, from diarrhea to some long-winded unspellable names. Whatever it is, common sense dictates that one should not tax the digestive system. Following are some simple diets made from materials easily available in our grocery stores and, most important of all, easily concocted in our kitchens.

Low residue diets: diets which have very little, if any, bulk in them. They may be rich in nutrients, or plain "fillers" depending on the content of the dish.

| 1. all vegetables | 5. lard, butter |
| 2. all fruits, except strained citrus | 6. cheese |
| 3. raw egg | 7. soft-cooked egg |
| 4. milk | 8. bread |

ARROZ CALDO

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 1 piece chicken breast | $\frac{1}{2}$ cup rice (washed clean) |
| 2-3 cloves garlic, crushed, fine | $\frac{1}{8}$ tsp. vetsin |
| 2-3 leaves spring onions (optional) | salt |
| $\frac{1}{2}$ tbsp. corn oil | pepper |

Boil chicken breast in 4 cups of water until tender. In separate pan, saute garlic in corn oil until golden brown. Set aside, then transfer chicken meat and rice into pan. Pour in broth of chicken and set to boiling with low fire until rice is cooked. Be sure the broth remains the same quantity by adding water as the broth diminishes. Add salt and pepper and vetsin to taste. Garnish with shredded spring onions to serve. Makes 2-4 servings.

NOTE: This may be a thin gruel. Add rice and/or water if you need to make more. To make the broth more tasty, you may add a cube or two of chicken bouillon cubes, depending upon the quantity made.

BRAIN SOUP

- | | |
|---------------------------------|-------------------|
| 1 whole pig's brain | 4-5 cups of water |
| 2-3 cloves garlic, crushed fine | 1 tbsp. corn oil |
| 1 small white onion | salt |
| 1 roll misua | pepper |

Scald pig's brain and peel off tissue. Then chop into small pieces. Set aside. Saute garlic and onion in corn oil. Add chopped brain. Add water and set to boil. The brain is cooked when it is white and the small blood vessels dark brown instead of red. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add misua and boil another 2 minutes or until misua is cooked. Serve immediately.

BASIC RECIPE FOR GELATIN

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 bar native gulaman | 1 cup ice cold water or substituted cold fruit juice |
| 1 cup water (substitute 1 cup canned fruit juice, strained
when possible) | $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar |

Boil 1 cup of water. Add sugar and boil till dissolved; add gulaman after washing and shredding into tiny pieces. When gulaman is completely dissolved, remove from the fire and add cold water or cold fruit juice. Pour into mold. Makes 2 servings.

NOTE: One can use the gelatin for base and use concentrated soup or soup from bouillon cubes as a substitute for the one cup of fruit juice for variety of taste.

BROILED FISH

Broiled fish makes one of the more tasty and appetizing low-fat, low residue diets for people with diarrhea and a good number of stomach upsets. Some suggestions on the type of fish to broil are: bangus, dalag (mudfish), banak, hito (catfish) pampano, and tilapia. To make broiled fish more tasty, one must choose freshly caught fish, gut it and rinse off any blood or slippery tissue-like materials inside. Rubbing with salt and/or vinegar and rinsing off very well usually does the trick especially for the fresh water mudfish and hito. To broil fish plain, just add salt and serve with lemon or vinegar with onions or garlic, depending upon taste of individual. Some people like it broiled with the insides stuffed with a mixture of chopped tomatoes and onions seasoned with salt and pepper. Broiled fish is usually served with rice boiled soft or lugao for the first solid meals of patients with stomach upsets.

CHICKEN CONSOMME

Giblets of 1 or 2 chickens	2 cloves
1 carrot, sliced	8 cups of water
1 stick of celery, cut up	salt and pepper to taste
2 leeks, cut up	2 tbsp. tapioca
1 onion, sliced

Boil the water with the vegetables, salt, and pepper. Clean the giblets (neck, feet, gizzard, liver, and wing joints nearest the body) and put them in the boiling water. Simmer for an hour or until the giblets are tender (or pressure cook for 20 minutes over a low flame). When the giblets are cooked, strain the soup. Thicken with tapioca and cook for 10 more minutes. 4-6 servings.

GARLIC SOUP

Divide the garlic into cloves and peel off the outer skin. Put in a pan containing the boiling water to which salt has been added. Boil for about 10-15 minutes. Meanwhile, fry the bread in a little butter or margarine until golden brown. Put the fried bread at the bottom of the soup tureen. Remove the soup from the fire and strain it. Add the egg yolks and 1 tbsp. of butter, stirring all the time. Pour immediately into the soup tureen. 4 servings.

PLAY MATERIALS FOR CHILDREN

EASY PASTE

Add water to flour and put in a can. Heat over slow fire and stir until it reaches a good consistency for paste. Only make a small amount at a time as any used paste of this type will spoil in 2 days, even when kept in a covered jar.

LONGER-KEEPING PASTE

1 cup flour
1 cup sugar
1 quart water

1 tbsp. powdered alum
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. oil of cloves or oil of wintergreen

Mix flour and sugar together and slowly stir in $\frac{1}{4}$ of the water. Bring the remainder of the water to a boil and add the flour-sugar mixture. Stir until clear. Add the alum and stir until completely mixed. Remove from the stove and add oil of cloves or wintergreen to keep the paste sweet. This makes 2 quarts of paste. Keep in a tightly-covered jar in a cool place. Thin when necessary by adding water and stirring.

BOOKMAKER'S PASTE

1 tsp. flour
2 tsp. cornstarch

$1\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. powdered alum
3 tbsp. water

Mix the dry ingredients. Add water slowly, stirring out all the lumps. Cook over slow fire, stirring constantly. Remove when the paste begins to thicken. It will thicken more as it cools. Keep in covered jars. Thin with water if necessary. Powdered alum may be found in a drug-store.

FINGER PAINT

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup laundry starch
 $\frac{1}{2}$ quart boiling water

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup soap flakes (not detergent)

You may use Ivory Flakes or shave laundry soap into flakes

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup talcum powder
 1 tsp. glycerin (optional)
 tempera paint or food coloring
 a little cold water

Stir the cold water into laundry starch. Pour the boiling water over this. Bring mixture to a boil, stir it constantly until thick and smooth. Remove from fire. Add soap and talcum powder. Beat with a rotary beater. Add color and glycerin. Cool and put in containers. To color, stir paint or food coloring into each jar.

HOW TO USE FINGER PAINT

Select paper with a smooth, shiny surface. Shelf paper is good. Place newspaper on the table where you will paint. Dip the paper, on which you will paint, in water, then lay it on the newspaper. Place a spoonful of finger paint on the paper. Then use your fingers to spread the paint in whatever designs you wish! Don't be afraid to use your whole hand to make different textures and designs. Several colors may be used in one picture. Let painting dry. Be sure to use only washable coloring so hands can be cleaned easily.

SAWDUST MODELING MIXTURE

Mix 1 cup of sawdust with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup wallpaper paste or a flour-water type of paste (see Bookmaker's Paste). Add enough water to make a soft dough. Mixture may be molded over a wire frame or another object or shape as desired. It is very good for making relief maps without a wire frame. It can be painted when dry.

Note: In rainy season the mixture may not dry easily and might mold. If the object is not too big, you can dry it in an oven. Heat oven to low and bake object for several hours.

WINDOW PAINT

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup liquid cleaning solution like Bon Ami, Mr. Clean, etc. water	$\frac{1}{2}$ cup alabastine* $\frac{1}{2}$ cup dry tempera paint
--	--

Mix dry ingredients and add enough water to make a paste. This mixture may be painted on the window with a small brush or clean rag. It may be wiped off easily with a damp cloth and does not mark the window in any way. It is nice for Christmas scenes.

* Alabastine is another name for glass paint or Whiting. It comes in powder and is obtained at hardware or paint stores. If you can't get alabastine, try this recipe with just tempera paint and a liquid cleaning solution.

PAINT EXTENDER

Make a thick "gravy" of cornstarch and water. Cook over a fairly low heat until thick. Add 2 tbsp. of this mixture to each jar of paint. This will extend the paint and thicken it so there will be less dripping. It also improves the texture, making the paint smoother.

PLAY DOUGH

2 cups flour	2 tbsp. olive oil or any other kind of food coloring or watercolor paint	cooking or mineral oil
1 cup salt

Mix flour, salt, oil, and coloring. Add water little by little to the mixture until you can shape it. Knead the dough and place in a plastic bag. This dough may be rolled, cut with cookie cutters and decorated.

CLAY

2 cups baking soda	1½ cup water (add food coloring to
1 cup cornstarch	water if you wish)

Cook to boiling, stirring until dough-like. Remove from heat, cover with damp cloth. When cool enough to handle, knead a little. You may glue glitter or sequins on or just press them in. Shape. Place on baking sheet in 350°F oven (turned off) until dry.

EASTER EGGS

The eggs: When using hard-boiled eggs, it is better if they are still hot. For hollow shell, prick holes in both ends of a raw egg. Blow hard into one hole and the egg will come out the other hole. Wash the shell and let it drain dry.

Coloring: Place a teaspoon of vinegar in a coffee cup. Fill the cup about $\frac{1}{2}$ full of hot water. Add food coloring. Place the egg on a spoon or in a holder and lower carefully into the water. When it is the color you want, remove it from the water, drain off excess water, and place on newspaper to dry.

Designs: You may use white crayon to make designs on the egg before you color it. This will keep the coloring off the egg shell.

You may draw designs afterwards with crayons. Pentel pens could also be used to make designs. Some pentel pens are water colors and will come off if the egg gets wet. Others are water-proof. If you use waterproof pens, you can make your designs first and then dye the egg.

Another thing is the melted wax crayons. Shave old crayons into a cup of hot water. Dip the egg into the water. The crayon shavings will make multi-color op-art designs. For Easter eggs people or animals, you may draw a face on your egg and add a hat, hair, ears, made of paper. Set your egg on a collar made of $\frac{3}{4}$ of a doughnut-shaped piece of paper.

Filled eggs: You may fill the hollow egg shells with candy. To do this you enlarge one of the holes and insert the candy. Stuff with a piece of cotton. You may cover the hole with Scotch tape, or dip the end of the egg in melted parafin.

A WORD ABOUT THE BOOK

Most recipe books give assurance that the recipes appearing in them have been thoroughly tried and tested. This little book is no exception—with the difference that all the recipes appearing here have been tried and tested, not by expert cooks in efficient, professional, well-equipped kitchens, but by harried housewives and busy professionals in ordinary, every-day kitchens equipped with the usual essentials. Representing the cooking of various nationalities and cultures, as well as several regions of the Philippines these recipes specify ingredients which are either locally produced or always available here. Some of the recipes are family "hand-me-downs" and some have been taken from other cookbooks, but each contributor has made every effort to include the little "secrets of success" or "short cuts," to make cooking procedures clearer, or to include substitutes whenever possible.

This collection is being published as a fund-raising project for Ellinwood Church and because we feel that there is still a need for a good "every-day" cookbook. It may not win any international culinary prize, but I do know that all the recipes appearing here have passed the test of the most discriminating and important of gourmets—the countless number of hungry husbands and children of all ages that have flocked to the tables of the S.S. Wrighters for the past twenty years.
